Abstract

Textured Seal for Reduced Wear

The present invention describes a contact surface of a seal having textured features. The contact surface seals properly and is resistant to wear. The contact surface is able to perform in very severe environments, such as those found in earthmoving applications.

DOCKET NO. 7283